REDUCING THE RISKS AND THE WORRY

SPECIALIST GUARDING SERVICES

Whether it's to prevent evicted squatters re-occupying a vacant property, safeguard warehouses and industrial estates from robbery or maintain crowd control in difficult circumstances – properly licensed and trained security guards and dog units will usually be the most effective and visible deterrent. With an in-house team of SIA licensed, fully trained and highly experienced uniformed officers, we offer a complete range of manned security guard services.

Specialist Dog Handler Units

The presence, visibility and effectiveness of uniformed security guards is enhanced if those specialists are professional dog handlers, using the animal's enhanced ability to detect trespassers or intruders through their keen sight, astonishing sense of smell and their sharp hearing. Very often, the dog handler will be alerted to possible intruders by his canine team-mate long before he sees them or they are picked up on any surveillance system. Knowledge that a site is patrolled by a security officer with canine support is the ultimate deterrent to potential trespassers!

SIA Licensed Static Security Guards

The role and responsibility of a uniformed, static on-site security officer is extremely broad ranging. Static on-site security officers are there to protect your premises through the prevention of theft, avoiding water and fire damage and deterring vandalism. They can also control access by any visitors or contractors that may legitimately require entry to your property, often considered an integral part of the site's daily management and security services. That requires a high level of adaptability and expertise which is why Secure Site UK employs only highly qualified and trained SIA licensed professionals in this important role.

Mobile Patrol Officers

Mobile patrol officers are an efficient and effective means of enhancing site or premises security by providing regular random inspections of your property, particularly where continuous attendance would not be cost effective. Patrol sequences are varied so no obvious pattern is set. A mobile patrol guard will carry out regular checks on premises, vehicles, plant and machinery and other items on site, ensuring the safety of your stock and your property. We provide fully SIA licensed uniformed mobile patrol officers in liveried patrol vehicles that can give your premises 24 hour cover especially at weekends and on public holidays. These highly visible mobile patrols can act as a deterrent against criminal damage and vandalism, can also provide lone worker protection if required and an immediate response to intruder or fire alarm triggers.

Close Protection Officers

There may be occasions when it is not merely your property, but your own physical well-being that's at risk. Close protection officers (more commonly known as bodyguards) may be popularly associated with celebrities and politicians, but many business people or any private individual may have a need to protect themselves from deliberate attack, accidents or unwanted attention. Secure Site UK can provide CPOs of the very highest calibre, many with ex-police or armed services backgrounds. All our close protection officers have a Security Industry Authority (SIA) licence and have undergone intensive checks through the Criminal Records Bureau. They also hold a first aid at work qualification recognised by the SIA and have passed a Level 3 close protection qualification approved by the SIA. CPOs often have specialist training in tactics, unarmed combat and tactical driving as well as advanced firearms training.
